1967 DODGER

FORT DODGE

SENIOR HIGH

FORT DODGE, IOWA

VOLUME 56

FOREWORD

Dodgers come day after day into the empty hallways and classrooms of Fort Dodge Senior High School seeking knowledge. This knowledge is motivated by the faculty who encourage creative self-expression through the implements of learning. Dodgers recognize these implements as textbooks crammed into lockers after daily use, audio visual equipment used to reinforce learnings, and organizations and clubs which promote individual and group unity through talents. The learnings have been held high by the classroom teachers and administration.

One such educator is Carl T. Feelhaver. 1967 marks the end of thirty-three years of outstanding service by Mr. Feelhaver in the Fort Dodge Community School System, twenty years of which he served as superintendent of schools. Under his administration, many innovations and progressive steps have taken place. So, we the staff of the 1967 Dodger dedicate this book to Carl Feelhaver whose outstanding career has paralleled a period of vast growth in our school system.

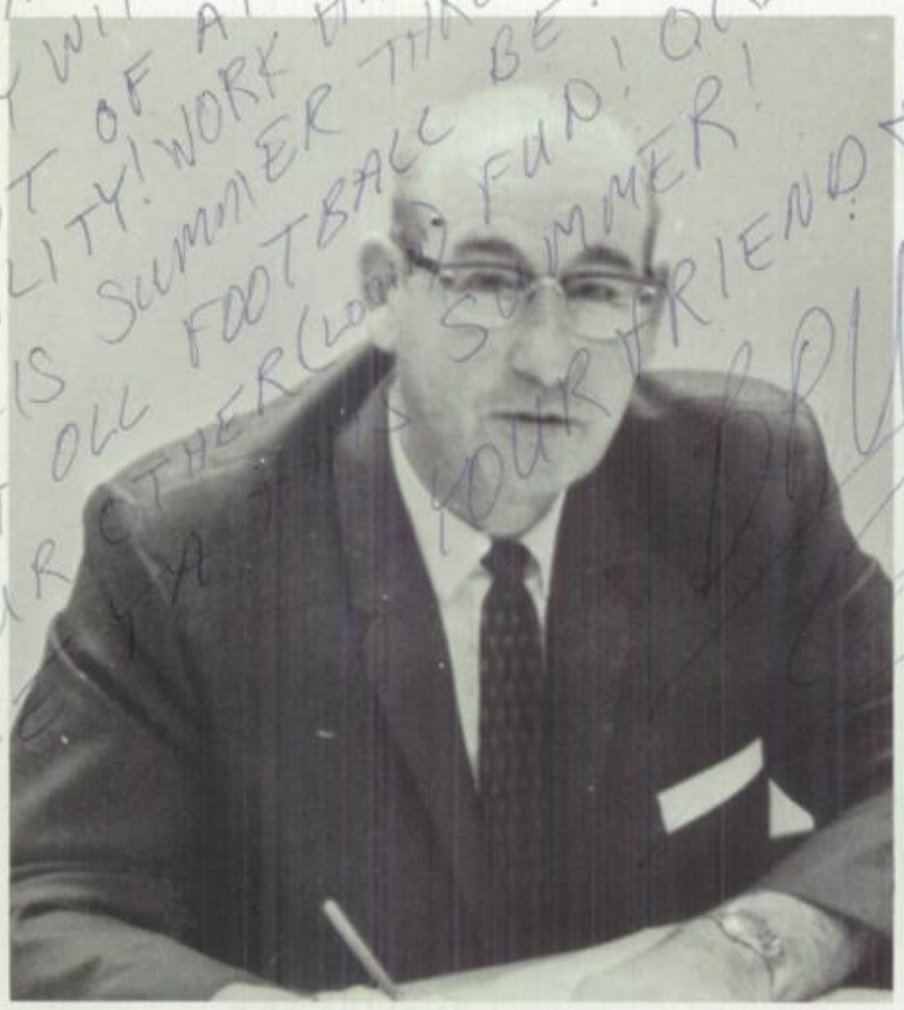
ADMINISTRATION



E. Paul Seydel represents fourteen years of leadership as principal of FDHS.

Mr. Seydel had the responsibilities of administering the high school, organizing and coordinating the various groups and units, and guiding the completed organization smoothly through the difficulties of each year.

Carl T. Feelhaver serves as the superintendent of public schools.

Some of the many responsibilities facing Mr. Feelhaver were looking after the facilities, preparing the budget, recruiting personnel, updating the curriculum, providing satisfactory working conditions for the staff and carrying on inservice training programs.

Teachers Strive For

Mr. McNeil, as director of activities, scheduled and supervised all of the student activities. This entailed the arrangement of the various assembly programs.

Ed McNeil spends much of his time arranging student activities.

Serving as the director of athletics is Vernon Huseman.

Mr. Huseman scheduled the athletics contests in which FDHS participated and hired the officials who ran the contests.

Representing disciplinary authority is Forrest Marquis.

Serving as vice principal, Mr. Marquis was in charge of attendance. He carried out disciplinary actions and those arising from absenteeism and tardiness.

Serving as counselors to all students are Ed McNeil, Edna Culbertson, and Eldo Harder.

The objective of the guidance counselors was to aid all students in their educational, personal and vocational problems.

Better Education

The Fort Dodge Board of Education determined school policy and expenditures. It was responsible for the orderly conduct of public education in the community.

Top: Teaching girls' physical education are Janet Reese and Florence Nordman. Bottom: Julian Nitzke and Roger Higgins teach boys' physical education classes.

Two hours a week of a student's schedule were devoted to physical development. Each student used this time to exercise his body correctly.

Publishing bulletins, keeping records and answering telephone calls were the tasks of the office staff.

English and Social Studies

Helping Fort Dodge High School students to fully understand the language they speak and use was the responsibility of the English department. Sophomore English emphasized the study of outstanding classics and stressed correctness and clearness in writing and speaking. Centering around American literature, junior English emphasized composition evolving from the reading done and stressed individual needs in spelling, vocabulary, and usage. Senior English covered expository composition and the history of great ideas as expressed in English and contemporary literature. Speech and debate led students to quick thinking and clear articulation of ideas, thus developing skill and self-confidence. Drama covered the principles of acting and included a study of the history of the theater.

Gail Niceswanger, Eleanor Hartigan, Dorothy Mann, and Lucile Gibb encourage the development of creativity and self-expression.

Encourage Self-Expression

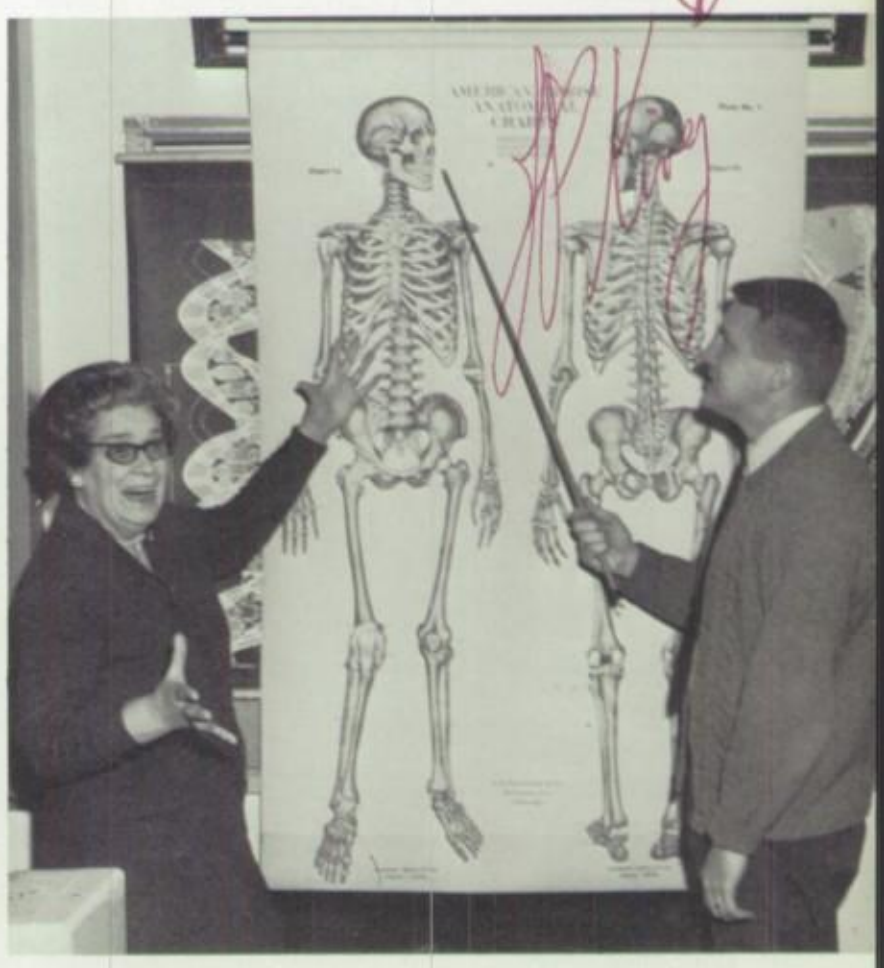
Win Raker, Lloyd Gayman, and William Becker are seen working with a balance.



FDHS offered three science courses. In biology, students attempted to learn how and why organisms act as they do. Chemistry dealt with the study of the structure and composition of materials and the changes in composition. Students taking physics studied the science that deals with matter and energy.

Carolyn Franey, Mary Ann Proeschold, and Imogene DeBakey teach the many factors of homemaking.

Home economics students learned many useful skills and planned for their futures by taking courses in homemaking, clothing and home living.

Courses in Latin, French, and Spanish were offered. The language laboratory was used to perfect listening and pronunciation. Students also studied histories and cultures.

The Faculty Challenges

Numerous courses in the field of industrial arts were offered to interest FDHS students. These classes included drafting, woodworking, a basic course in metals, two years of printing, vocational printing, motor mechanics, a machine shop course and vocational auto mechanics.

FDHS offered three fine art courses. First year students explored the elements of art. Lettering, advertising techniques, ceramics and sculpture were covered in the second year. An honors course for talented students completed the program.

Students to Think

Motivating students in business skills was the aim of the business education classes. General business emphasized the parts students play in our business system. Covering the fundamentals of salesmanship was general sales. Two years of typing were offered, which included a one semester personal typing course. Secretarial skills were emphasized in the two years of shorthand offered. Clerical practice familiarized students with filing, business machines, communications, and keeping financial and stock records. The bookkeeping course was directed to those interested in office work and to college-bound business administration students. Through vocational trade and industries, the distributive education and office education programs, seniors received on-the-job training by holding part-time jobs.

Arranging a still life display for art students are Eloise Halm and Robert Halm.

The social studies courses provided FDHS students with practical training for being useful citizens. Sophomores were required to take world history. It was devoted to the study of the history and geography of areas of the world, excluding the Americas. American history, required for juniors, covered the period of time from the explorations to the present, with special emphasis on the economics aspects. Civics was required for seniors. The first semester was devoted to the study of problems involved in all branches of government; second semester was a study of economics problems covering banking, credit, business cycles, world trade and government finance.

Larry Lee, Merven Haugen and Hedy Fritz teach students to think analytically.

Teachers Serve As

FDHS offered two years of algebra. Geometry was a course open to anyone completing one year of algebra. A semester course in trigonometry was offered, which was followed by a semester of analytic geometry. Completing the program was general mathematics, primarily a commercial arithmetic course.

Teaching math, the key to science, are Robert Silke, Nona Moss and Phillip Reed.

By helping students acquire knowledge and develop skills to be safe drivers, the Driver's Education instructors taught young drivers the laws and courtesy of responsible driving.

Keith Altemeier and Dean Moberg listen attentively as Larry Mitchell plays.

The music department offered FDHS students the opportunity to participate in training choir, Girl's Glee, A Cappella, band, and orchestra.

Club Advisors

Student Council Officers, Ray Siefer, Nancy Landes, and Andy Fotis stop first period before trophy case.

Fund Drives Reach Top

As a result of a vigorous campaign last spring, Andy Fotis was elected student body president. Working along with him to make his term successful were Ray Siefer, vice president; and Nancy Landes, secretary. The entire Student Council, meeting approximately once a month, with the help and advice of Mr. William Lynch, made decisions and tried to solve problems affecting the student body. The major assignments of the Student Council were to organize Homecoming activities, plan and decorate for numerous school dances and lead various fund drives.

Many committees performed such duties as cleaning the trophy case, counting money for fund drives, collecting during school-sponsored drives, welcoming and orienting the two foreign exchange students, Jaime Rojas and Crysanthi Souli. For their main project the Student Council developed a Hall of Fame for which members may be selected after a five-year waiting period. The Hall of Fame will afford deserved recognition to outstanding athletes of the past and present.

This year the North Central District Student Council Convention was held at Fort Dodge High School for the first time, where the officers of the district were elected.

Big Dodger Remembers Photography Department

Roberta Becher, Pam Jordison, Beth Packer, Tony Adams, Pam Josephson, and Vicki Blair relax before the deadlines.

Those who worked industriously on the Big Dodger happily presented a yearbook which they felt spelled out a success story of the school year.

With the cooperation of its staff, headed by its exacting editor, Cindy Byram, under the direction of its advisor, Mrs. Duncan, the hard work and long hours proved in reality to be a pleasurable experience from beginning to end.

The gathering of information, planning of lay-outs, picture taking, and copy creating required extra zeal on everyone's part and demanded considerable energy from all. There were many long hours spent in the performance of painstaking duties to bring forth the necessary results.

Sharing of ideas, interests and experiences brought about a closer feeling of unity and provided profitable gains for all the staff members. There was time for fun too, as the organization and planning took place, and materialized.

Neil Gadbury, Gordon Schaller, LuAnn Arney, Jolyn Magnusson, Jean Algoe, Marilyn Jones, and Marcia MacNamee combine efforts for a layout.

Mopping up after a dark room flooding experience is Howard Haase.

Little Dodger Features New Sports Column

Determined to bring forth interesting articles about the Fort Dodge Senior High activities, the staff of the Little Dodger searched unrelentlessly for information about sports, plays, assemblies, and students in order to make their newspaper newsworthy.

Credit for its success in providing interesting reading can be awarded to editor, Dave Allen, his able and hard-working staff and their competent advisor, Mrs. Virginia Hatch.

These enthusiastic journalists, who put together the Little Dodger, willingly gave much of their valuable time and energy. It was their cooperation that made this year's paper tops.

The hard-working participants looked forward eagerly to producing each issue even though it meant scurrying interviews, persistent working to secure advertisements, copy writing and rewriting, late night proof reading, and meeting printer's deadlines. Trials and tribulations were considered a part of the work, which gave invaluable experience to each staff member. Problems were encountered, pondered, and conquered. It was a happy crew who with pride and satisfaction finished each issue and saw its popularity proven by the excited readers who eagerly devoured its news.

National Forensic League— First In Northern District

Interest reigned and goals were great with the National Forensic League in 1966 and 67. The organization headed by president, Richard Cleland, vice president, Mollie Churchill, secretary, Ann Rae Heitland, and treasurer, Anita Garatoni soared to a very successful year, under the capable supervision of their advisor, Miss Sharon Kersenbrock.

Dodger debaters secured an enviable record, ranking first in the northern district nine times out of ten. They earned a perfect score of five wins and no losses at the Ames tournament in February. They were hospitable hosts to the Dodger Invitational Tournament in December.

Their polished group traveled over a thousand miles to participate in debates and contests and spent many long hours using their fine skills winning special recognition for their inspired members.

They not only won coveted honors, but also promoted worthwhile interest in forensic activities and were provided with invaluable experience.

Aspirations To Success For The Trade and Industry Club

The Trade and Industry Club worked hard and gave its members enjoyable business training experiences in club activities and social events at their meetings on the first Tuesday of each month.

The members were guided by Pat McGuire, president; Randy Sherman, vice-president; Keith Witte, secretary-treasurer; and reporter, Sue Price. Mr. Donald Clark acted as advisor for the club.

FBLA Builds Capable Business Leaders

The Future Business Leaders of America promoted preparation for better citizens and more capable leaders in tomorrow's world of business through its well-planned organization.

The main project of this club was the production of a student directory which listed the Fort Dodge High School students, their addresses and telephone numbers.

Regular meetings were held at which business directors and teachers spoke on topics of timely interest. Miss Jones, a business instructor in the Fort Dodge Community College, was the speaker at a December first Christmas party which was held at Treloars.

An interesting and informative year was achieved under the guidance of Mr. Phil Linney.

FBLA OFFICERS—Sitting: Jayne Conrad, president; Vicki Jordison, vice president; Standing—Pam Meyers, historian; Kathy Habhab, parliamentarian; Mary Ann Kolesar, secretary-treasurer.

Education gained, experience had, was the motto for those who comprised the D.E.C.A. organization. The members gained practical knowledge and also stored up information for future need.

Those who participated in this club worked to acquire the skills necessary for doing commendable work on a job as well as working toward gathering experience to be used later in life.

Meetings were held once a month and members made real progress in developing an understanding of responsible citizenry and the value of education in preparing for a career in marketing and allied jobs.

FTA Attends Prospective Teachers' Day

Future Teachers' Club provided an opportunity for high school students to explore their interest in the teaching profession. Through activities, they learned aspects of this profession. A tea was given in the fall by Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority at Riverside School. This gave the members an opportunity to talk with the professionals. At the annual Prospective Teachers' Day in November, the Webster County club members were guests of Community College. Guest speakers helped the members to decide if this was the profession of their choice. Finally, all junior and senior members received an opportunity, on March 15, to observe and teach in an elementary classroom. Completing their year was the annual picnic and installation of officers at Loomis Park.

Medical Careers Club Hosts Children's Party

Medical Careers Club offered an acquaintance with and a broader knowledge of the mysteries and magnificence of the medical profession.

Under the guidance of their advisor, Mrs. Harold Proeschold, the officers of the club, president, Susie Hasty, vice president, Nancy Landes, secretary-treasurer, Ann Dowd and corresponding secretary, Carol McKnight, planned monthly meetings which provided enlightenment and inspiration to their members.

A Christmas party for underprivileged children was a valuable experience for these girls who aspire to learn more about service in health and community welfare.

The specialists from the medical profession who spoke at some of the meetings added the necessary and beneficial knowledge about their careers giving impetus to the member's desire to know more about how to help others.

Carol McKnight serves hotdogs to members and their little friends during the Medical Careers banquet.

Squealing with delight, little guests of Medical Careers members receive gifts from Santa Claus.

Youth Forum Inspires Interest In The World

The Youth Forum members were given exciting glimpses into the affairs and conditions of the world through the timely programs presented at their monthly meetings. Visionary speakers promoted travel through the mind's eye to Africa, Europe, Australia, Columbia, and Canada. A realistic adventure was the trip the members made to Cornell College to become better acquainted with college life. An interesting forum on World Law, as well as a worthwhile program about Abe Lincoln, gave added zest to a well-planned year under the advisorship of Miss Norma Hanson and Lisle Townsend.

Latin Club

The Senatus Populusque Romanum Club was under the leadership of Miss Mary Boxwell. The initiation party, the reception for the alumni, and the annual Latin Banquet were the social events of the year. The purposes of Latin Club were to further an interest in Latin and to make Latin class enjoyable.

Officers were elected by secret votes. Only fourth year students were eligible for the offices of Primus Consul and Secundus Consul. The officers were Primus Consul, Gordy Schaller; Secundus Consul, Chris Johnson; Scriba, Pam Josephson; and Quaestor, Oscar Habhab.

Spanish Club

The aim of Spanish Club was to speak the language as much as possible in the business meetings and to become familiar with the culture of the various countries. The annual Christmas banquet was held at the Fort Dodge Country Club where the highlight of the night was the traditional breaking of the pinata.

Spanish Club was held once a month during class periods. Highlights of a trip into Mexico and slides of Spanish speaking countries were among the top programs of the year. Jaime Rojas, our American Field Service student from Chile, added additional foreign influence to the meetings. A special dinner banquet featuring a Spanish menu was given on Pan American Day in April.

The club's activities were ended in the spring by the annual picnic at which prospective second-year students were initiated into Spanish Club.

Under the guidance of Miss Harriet Demorest, and Mrs. Beverly Walker, the French Club met monthly on the last Wednesday. Sans Souci was composed of all students in the second-year French classes.

The members of Sans Souci enjoyed two parties this year. The first was a Christmas party held at Treloar's Inn. The second party was a picnic at a local park. The purpose of the picnic was to initiate prospective members for the following year.

Where's Charley? Delights FDHS Students

A Cappella officers Cindy Nieting, Ray Siefer, Karen Dreier, Larry Leege, and Dianne Moore discuss music for the spring concert.

Under the direction of Mr. Larry Mitchell, the 1967 A'Cappella choir filled the music room every day during the fourth period with enjoyable harmony. In addition to its annual Christmas Concert, the choir blended their voices to add to a Christmas assembly. Other appearances included concerts at high school, both junior highs, service clubs, district student council convention, and various senior activities.

The highlight of the year for its members was the presentation of the musical, "Where's Charley?" This delightful musical production told of the adventures and misadventures of Charlie Wykam and Jack Chesney who invited their girl friends up to their apartment with the understanding that Charley's aunt would be chaperone. The aunt never arrived.

The elected officers were Larry Leege, president; Ray Siefer, manager; Dianne Moore, secretary; Cindy Nieting and Karen Dreier, librarians; and Scott Griffith, C. B. Higgins, Kathy Brinton, and Gretchen Siekmann, wardrobe managers.

Orchestra Presents Springtasia Concert

In addition to the presentation of the traditional Christmas program the Fort Dodge Senior High Orchestra had a heavy schedule which included concerts at North Junior High, South Junior High, the Winter Wonderland Concert and the Springtasia Concert. Mr. Altemeier directed the orchestra while Mr. Moberg directed the string section.

Louise Kramer, Larry Crummer, Karen Dreier, and Dorothy Ness were the Dodgers who participated in the All-State Orchestra during Thanksgiving vacation.

Girls Glee Takes Part In Spring Concert

The air filled with music as the Girls Glee Club practiced and perfected their singing techniques three days a week during second period.

The members of this club devoted many hours to rehearsing for their annual Christmas Concert. Diligent practice produced an impressive performance and their efforts were very well received.

Opportunity to dance in the spring operetta was an honor for the participating members and many tryouts for this were held.

It was a busy and profitable year for this energetic group who worked faithfully under the leadership of Mr. Larry Mitchell.

Pep Club Arouses Dodger Spirit

Pep Club played an important role in rousing school spirit at pep assemblies and games. To earn enough points to be a pin member a girl had to participate in many various activities. Athletic events, meetings, working for the bonfire, different homecoming committees, and painting signs were ways a girl could obtain these points.

The bonfire was a complete success due to much hard work by the loyal members. They made the decorations for the homecoming assembly and sponsored sock hops.

Pep Club unified its members by purchasing uniforms of black skirts, white blouses, and red sweaters.

Boys' Booster Club Obtains Charter

The Boy's Booster Club deserved praise-worthy credit for a job well-done. Their energetic members helped to provide an active interest in the loyal pride of our school.

The club met regularly under the supervision of Mr. Gayman and Mr. Hageman, organizing and planning activities which would deepen and extend school spirit. Concurring enthusiasm was contagious and the members saw their efforts and plans spiral into enduring loyalty. The club's efforts helped make for continued good will in the halls, classrooms, and at all the activities.

The promising group filled a need and promoted the spirit necessary for a school to be foremost and forthright.

Spirits were raised as the 1966-67 Dodger band marched down the field during football games and filled the stadium with the strains of "Up Fort Dodgers!" Led by drum major Larry Leege, the band provided various interesting programs throughout the season. During one halftime, a patriotic program was presented featuring A Cappella, a huge American Flag and the majorettes twirling lighted batons. In addition to this regular appearance, the band, under the direction of Mr. Keith Altemeier, played various concerts.

The pep band successfully enthused pep assemblies with many fast tunes known to Dodgers. Among the snappy numbers, the band played Herb Alpert's music and ended with the school pep song.

Concert band presented programs which were given at North Junior High, South Junior High, and Senior High School for public audiences.

Jaime — Our Chilean A.F.S. Student

Jaime Rojas, our A.F.S. Student from Santiago, Chile, arrived at the Calvin Woods' home in August, 1966. Jaime's subjects at Fort Dodge Senior High included civics, American history, English, Spanish, and typing. After graduating from high school here, he will have four more months of school left to fill his high school education in Chile.

Jaime found the atmosphere of FDHS much like his own, although the major difference was "the girls".

Jaime participated in many school activities. He was a member of Student Council, vice-president of AFS Club, and a member of Spanish Club. He enjoyed swimming, soccer, and basketball. His spare time was spent listening to music, watching TV, and going to shows.

Jaime's future plans are indefinite, but he hopes to become a pilot or study sociology.

Jaime spends many hours with his American brother, Denny Woods.

Jaime Rojas stops outside the school before returning home.

Chrysanthi — Our Greek A.F.S. Student

From Athens, Greece came our seventeen-year-old AFS Student, Chrysanthi Souli. While living in Fort Dodge, she made her home with the Vernon Moore family.

In comparing FDHS with school in Greece, Chrysanthi felt that we had much more freedom. In Greece twelve to fifteen subjects are required, and the students attend school from two until seven in the evening six days a week.

Chrysanthi enjoyed watching all sports and liked to participate in basketball and volleyball. For recreation Chrysanthi preferred dancing and music, her favorites being Italian and French. Parties and music occupied many of her leisure hours.

Chrysanthi's future plans are still indefinite. She would like to travel and attend a language institute for a year or two before attempting to pass her entrance exams at Athens University.

Diane points out to Chrysanthi pictures of their friends in last year's Dodger.

Around The World With Peanuts — A.F.S. Theme

The A.F.S. Club in its second year gathered members and momentum. Those who belonged were given a chance to become better acquainted with this year's foreign exchange students, Chrysanthi Souli of Greece, and Jaime Rojas of Chile. These personable friends from other lands showed slides and gave talks about their native homes at the meetings.

Interest in American Field Service was furthered through the relating of experiences in a different land and also by the spirited activities that the club promoted. One highlight of the year was the tobogganing party held at the American Legion Country Club.

A.F.S. week, March 6-10, brought about the annual dance and the fund raising drive. Both were successful in providing fun and funds.

Officers of the club, president, LuAnn Arney, vice-president, Jamie Rojas, secretary-treasurer, Chrysanthi Souli and sponsor, Mr. William Lynch helped make this club an important one.

A.V. and O.E. Organize in 1966

Audio Visual Club, which was formed this fall, was open to all students for the purpose of learning how to operate the audio visual equipment at F.D.H.S. Meetings were held twice a month with refreshments served afterwards. Sessions were spent learning the various parts of the machinery and learning how to repair the equipment if a machine should break down. Each member delivered films for one week at different times during the year. The officers were president, Bruce Perkins; vice-president, Sue Osterburg; secretary-treasurer, Beth Packer.

The newly organized office education program served as an accent for on-the-job-training and corresponded with school work in clerical and secretarial work. Miss Olson was advisor of the group. Officers included Sandy Davis, president; Peggy Scarborough, vice president; Peggy Gross, secretary; and Kay Peterson, treasurer.

Members of this group competed in the State Convention at Des Moines and worked in downtown offices after school. The year was ended by a banquet given by the girls for the employers.

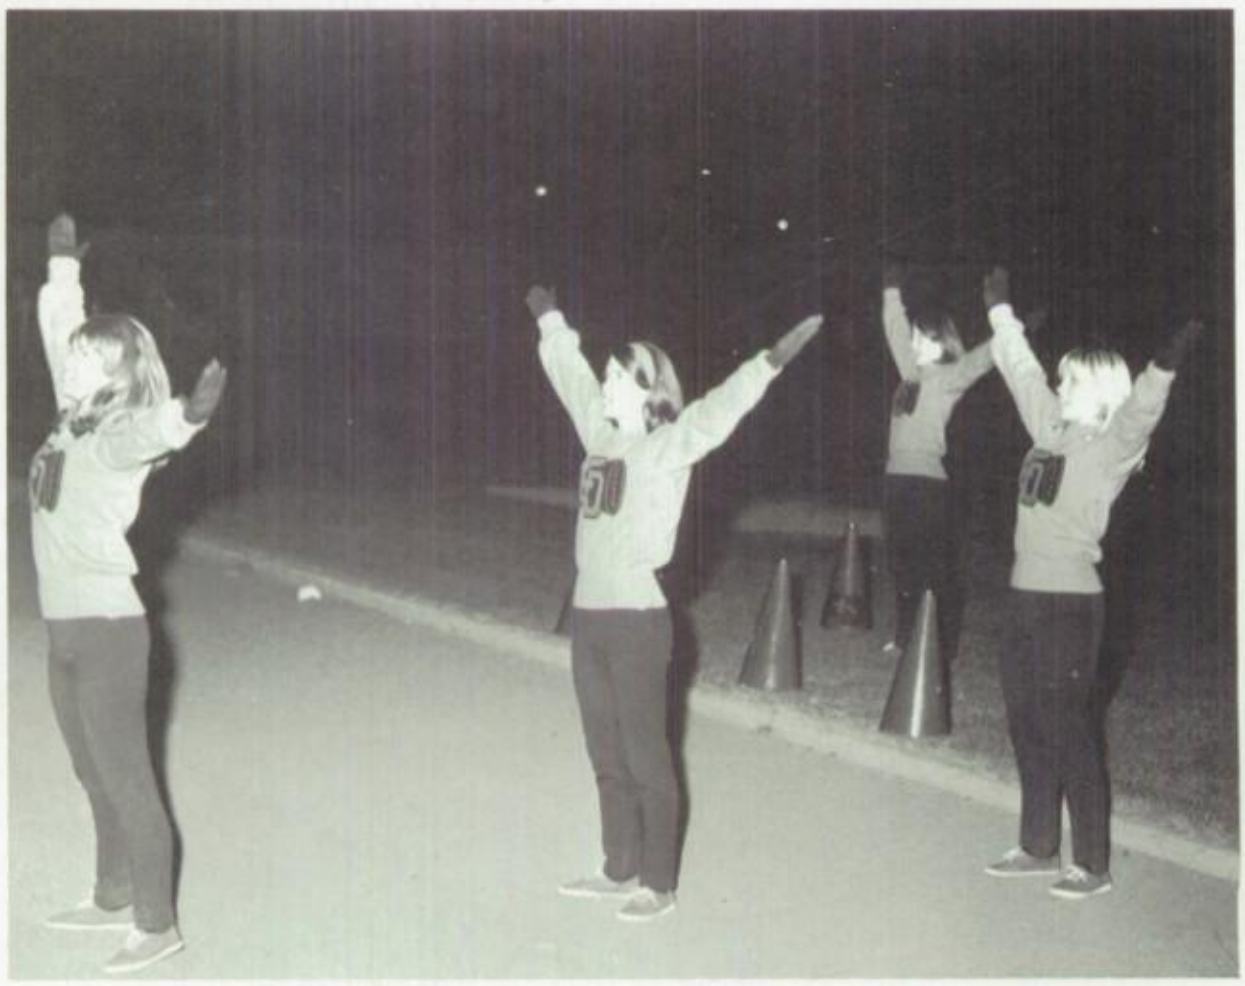
Cheerleaders Spark Enthusiasm In Teams



The varsity cheerleaders urge the spectators to rise up to the occasion.

In the spring numerous girls worked out and coordinated their voices and actions in a process called cheerleading. All of them worked hard, but finally the student body chose the six girls, who, in their evaluation, would perform the best together and create the most enthusiasm. These six practiced all summer so that they performed as an organized unit when the sports seasons came around. However, their efforts did not cease here, but they continued to practice so that they became more proficient and generated more enthusiasm as the year went by. These girls brought a bit of spice and color that complimented rather favorably all sporting events.

Cheerleaders Barb Goodrich, Sharon Patterson, and Carol Strader perform a new cheer in the shape of a pyramid.

Sharon Patterson shouts, "Up Fort Dodgers!"

And Spectators

Last fall the sophomore class chose four girls from many willing and capable candidates to represent them as cheerleaders at their athletic contests, both in Fort Dodge and out of town. These girls practiced many hours each week and often correlated their cheers to those of the varsity cheerleaders. They continually aroused spirit in the sophomore class and the whole student body with their zest and eager ability.

Cross country entered its second season at Fort Dodge Senior High under the direction of Coach Nitzke. With two returning lettermen off last year's squad, the Dodger runners compiled a 4-4 dual meet record. Many boys went out for cross country in order to gain the endurance needed in other demanding sports. The athletes went through strenuous workouts daily and ran many miles weekly so that they would be in top condition for their other sports.

Girls as well as boys were encouraged to participate in organized athletic activities at FDHS. Competition was offered in field ball, volleyball, basketball, and softball. Miss Nordman oragnized all events, which took place after school. Senior and junior teams composed one league and sophomore teams had their own competition. At the end of two years, if a girl had participated in all events she signed for in girls' intramurals, she received a monogram award.

Dodgers Oppose Five

The 1966 football season provided a number of surprises and disappointments for the interested Dodger spectators. The year began with a bang as the Dodgers topped Boone, rated 8th in a preseason poll, 33-20. However their spirits were deflated as the team went down to defeat at the hands of Carroll Kuemper and Cedar Falls. With great anticipation the squad next prepared to take on the three powerful East schools on successive Fridays. Defeated by Sioux City and Waterloo, the team next turned its sights to the homecoming game with East Des Moines. Rain poured and thunder cracked, but the weather did not dampen the Dodgers' spirits as they lost a close contest to the highly favored Scarlets. Victory also escaped the Dodgers' grasp in the next two outings with conference opponents Mason City and West Waterloo. The annual charity game with Sioux City Heelan was the last contest for the 1966 Dodger football team. They entered the stadium with elevated spirits and played a hard, determined game. It was perhaps their best effort of the year, although they came out on the short end of a 54-28 score.

Although the season was unproductive victory wise, it provided many thrills and much excitement for all Dodger fans.

The season opened for the sophomore football team with enthusiasm high and aspirations elevated. Coach Robert Silke worked hard and long, directing his young squad to an undefeated season. The only blemish on an otherwise spotless record was a 20-20 tie with Boone in the opening contest of the year. The boys that went out for sophomore football gained the valuable experience and sportsmanship that is demanded by competition on a varsity level.

The sophomores score a touchdown for their undefeated season.

Coaches Vernon Huseman and Tom Hartigan inspire the team to a victorious season.

Basketball is a popular sport at FDHS, and year after year Coach Vernon (Dutch) Huseman has produced consistently good teams. At the beginning of the year some doubts stirred as to how good a squad this one would be. The varsity had only two returning lettermen and lacked depth and experience. However, after winning the first two games and five of the first six, FDHS once again appeared to have the outstanding basketball squad which has characterized the school in recent years. After a slow start in the Big Six race, the cagers caught fire and finished second behind perennial champion East Waterloo. Moreover, the squad was greatly improved from its early season form and played with a deliberate, team effort. Immediately, the Dodgers entered rigorous tournament competition, aiming for one of the eight berths in the state AA tournament at Des Moines. Decisive victories over Webster City and intercity rival St. Edmonds captured the district title for the Dodgers. Next came sub-state competition against Ames on their home court. It was an exciting game, with the Dodgers leading most of the way, but the 6th ranked Ames squad pulled out in the fourth quarter and then hung on for a 57-55 victory over Fort Dodge, eliminating them from further competition. As the season closed, Coach Huseman looked forward to next year when his team would have the experience from juniors and sophomores that it lacked this year, and he forecast that next year Fort Dodge would have a team in the state meet once again.

The 1966-67 FDHS sophomore basketball squad opened the year with victories over Boone and Algona-Garrigan. Swimmers Enjoy Second Season in New Standing by the office of the new YMCA pool, Coach Gary Carr discusses tactics with one of his varsity swimmers.

With seven returning lettermen from last year's top-notch varsity, the FDHS swimming team began conditioning soon after November 1 for a long, hard season. After several weeks of strenuous workouts, the Dodger swimmers prepared to open the campaign against highly rated Des Moines Roosevelt. Although defeated by the Ruffriders and then by Sioux City Central and West Waterloo, the swimmers snapped back into style compiling an 8-2 record for the remainder of the season. Included in the victories were double conquests of Boone, East Des Moines, and Mason City, and a first place finish in the Boone Invitational. Following a final victory over Ames, the Dodgers next conditioned for district and state competition. The team as a whole captured third place in the district and qualified ten individuals in seven events for further competition. Against the best in the state assembled at Ames, the Dodgers took 19th place, a respectable showing for any team. Coach Gary Carr had much to look forward to next year with a number of promising sophomores and juniors and even a few freshmen returning, and next year's swimming team is expected to be one of the best in the state.

Swimmers Take Boone Invitational

A Dodger swimmer renders a towel to his water soaked head.

Relaxing his taut muscles, Bill McCarroll stretches prior to a race.

J.V. Swimmers Strive for Self-Improvement

Every day after school found the junior varsity swimming team hard at work at the North Junior High pool. They practiced daily on form, turns, starts, and building endurance so that they might have a chance to move onto the varsity. This phase of the swimming program showed the most improvement from day to day, and many boys did earn spots on the first team. John King coached the J.V. and kept them inspired to work hard throughout the year. This was the unheralded facet of swimming that so few knew about or appreciated.

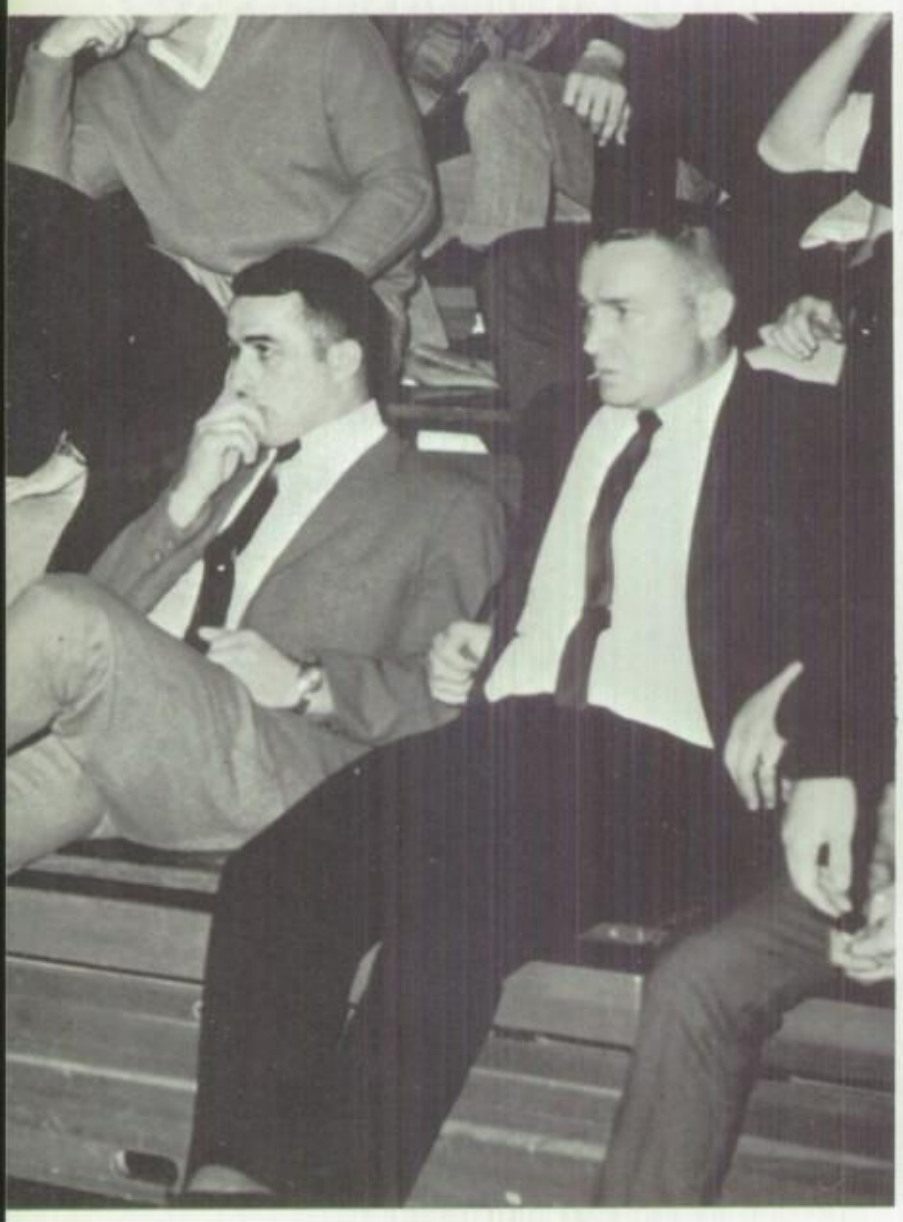
Dodgers Send Four to State Meet

Pondering the outcome of a match are Coaches Wayne Cormaney and Dick Formanek.



Ninety-five pounder Joe Sestak seeks an opening for a takedown.

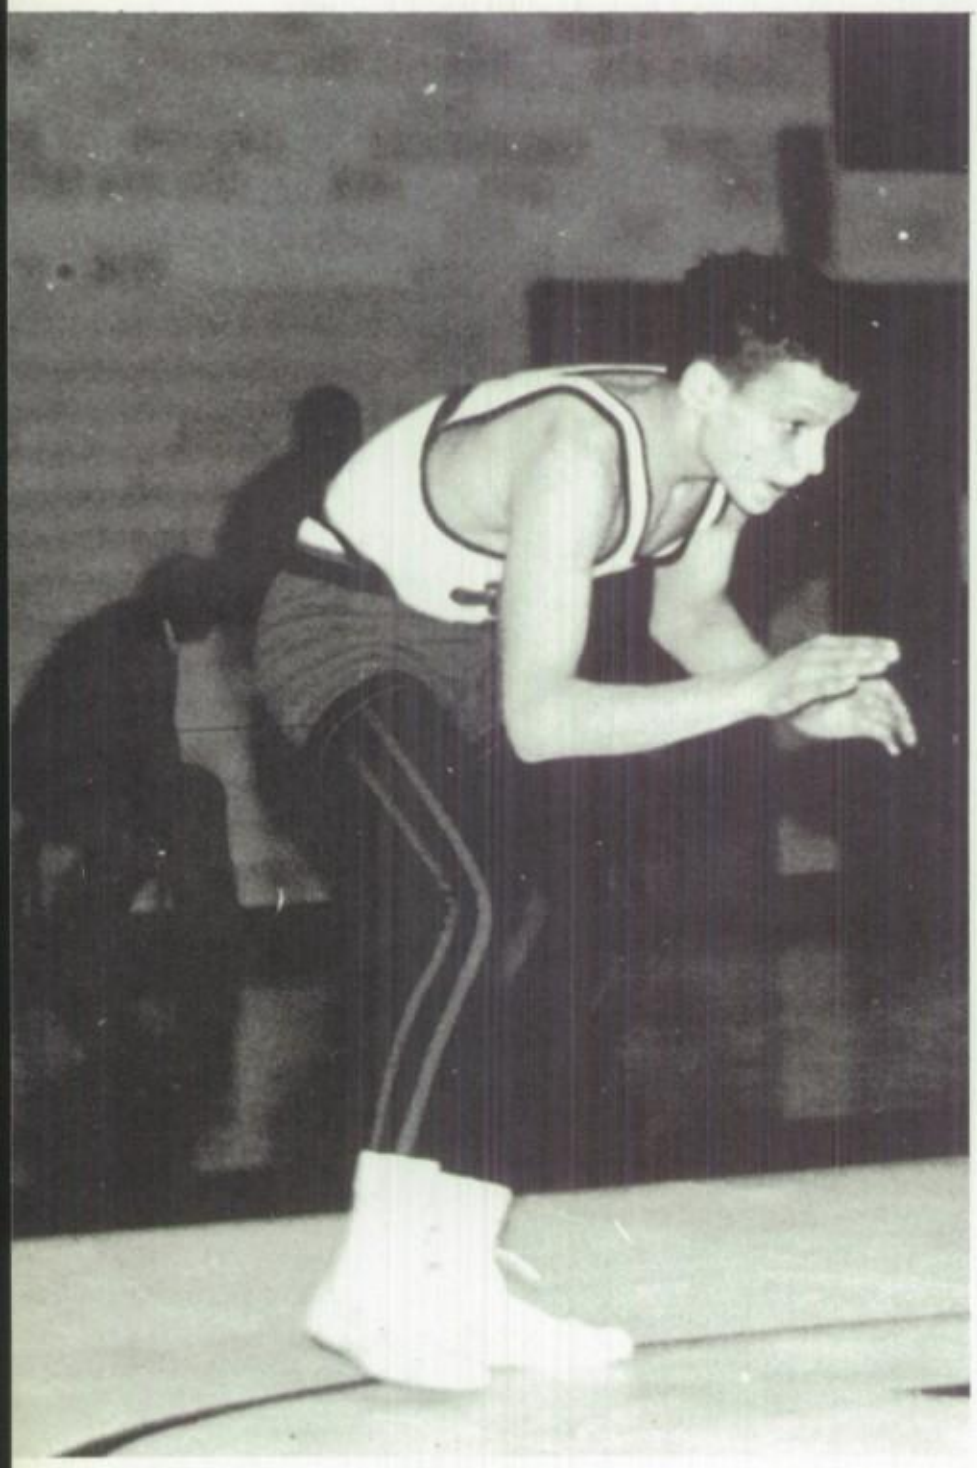
Coach Formanek makes a momentary adjustment on Bruce Heistand's headgear.



Squaring off and sizing his foe up before a match is sophomore Joe Sestak.

Eagle Grove Invitational goes To Dodgers

The sport that demanded the most from a boy was wrestling. It forced him to keep his body in top condition and his morale high. It taught him self-discipline in eating and sleeping habits and the necessity of physical fitness. These boys sweat it out every day, striving for quicker moves and greater endurance. But all the hard work paid off as the grapplers compiled an 8-4 dual meet record, and had several outstanding individuals. All eleven Dodger wrestlers entered Sectional competition and eight earned the right to continue to districts where four qualified for the state mat meet. Only Jim Neighbors, of the four, survived first round matches among rugged competition and went on to take third in the state at 127 pounds.

Jim Neighbors, undefeated during the regular season, siderolls one of his victims.

The Dodger junior varsity wrestlers continually challenged the top grapplers in each weight division throughout the year, in hopes of earning a spot on the first team. This was evidenced by the impressive record the J.V. compiled this year, marred only by a narrow defeat at the hands of highly regarded West Waterloo. These boys were as valuable to the squad as anyone else, for they forced all the other wrestlers to put out that extra effort that separated a good wrestler from a great one.

Bonfire, Games, Kick off Dodger

A uniformed Pep Club boosts Dodger spirit.

Weeks of work produce the biggest bonfire in FDHS history.

Vicki Nelson gives her full support for the team.

As fall sneaked up on a lazy summer, busy Dodgers began work on the bonfire. Trucks piled high with boxes and loyal Dodgers were unloaded into numerous garages. School started, and the daily workers were justly rewarded; for the bonfire was the largest in the history of Fort Dodger Senior High School. The bonfire sparked the Dodger football team into a decisive victory over Boone.

The assemblies rang with excitement generated by the ever-present Dodger Spirit. The Pep Club, which acquired sharp new uniforms this year, could now boast an appearance as mighty as their sound. The Boy's Booster Club reorganized and added their enthusiasm and pep at the assemblies, and at the games. The going was rough for the Dodger teams, but student support didn't lack. Bus trips were as great as ever as a lot of Dodgers showed their pride in their football teams. Homecoming neared, excitement and anticipation mounted, as Dodgers each strove to out do the other as numerous floats took shape.

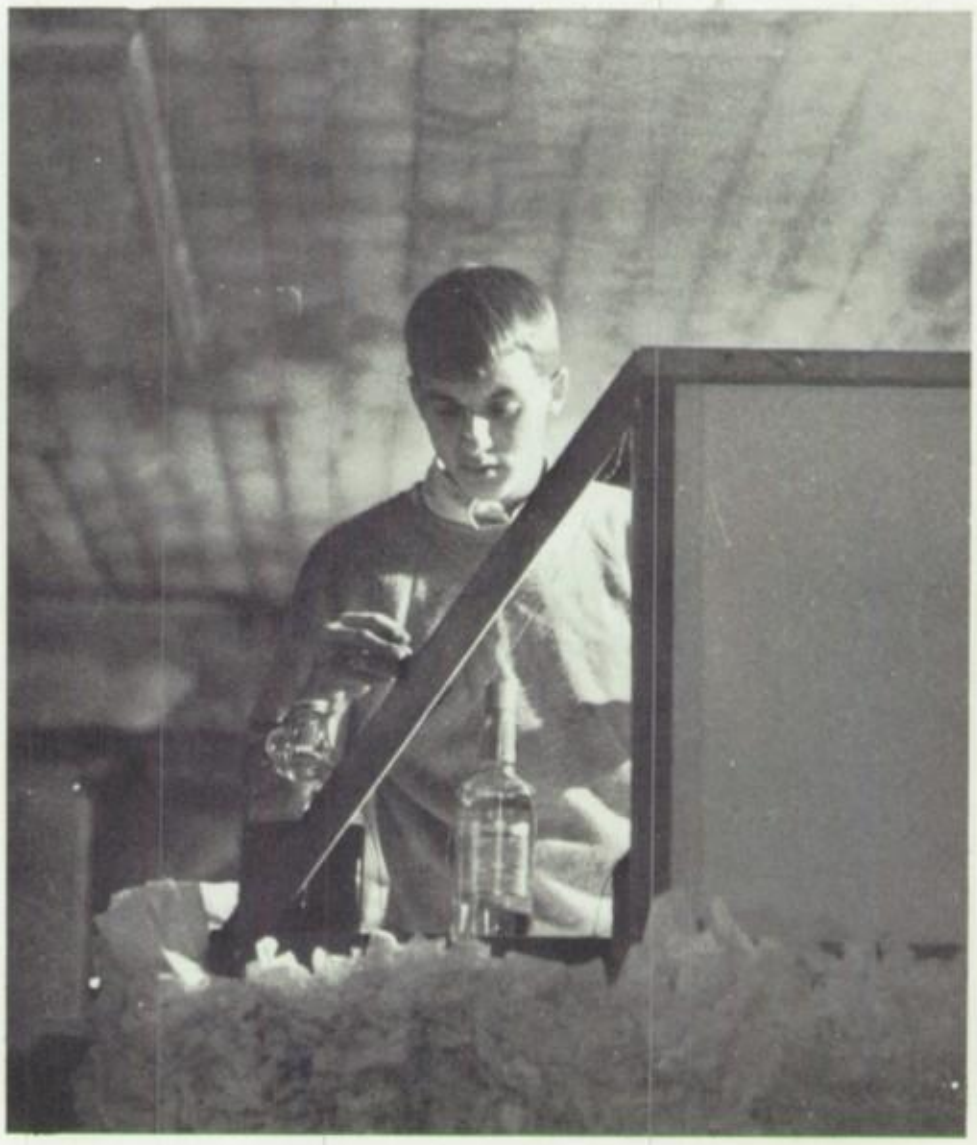
Sam Hartman stretches in anticipation of Homecoming.

Scott Griffith concentrates on painting HR 8's float.



"I can't believe it!"

Not even the rain can erase Sharon's smile.

Kathy Phipps and Tim Akins display their Loyal Dodger spirit, along with the other band members.

Homecoming 1967

Homecoming '67, developed by the theme of the Wild West, was a success despite the rain. The coronation of the queen, Sharon Patterson, preceded the parade through the rain, which drenched pep club and ruined the floats. The dance followed by the traditional midnight snack at restaurants concluded the Homecoming events.

The winner of the most beautiful float boasts the work of Homerooms 106 and 115.

From the queen's throne, everyone appears to be enjoying themselves at the homecoming dance.

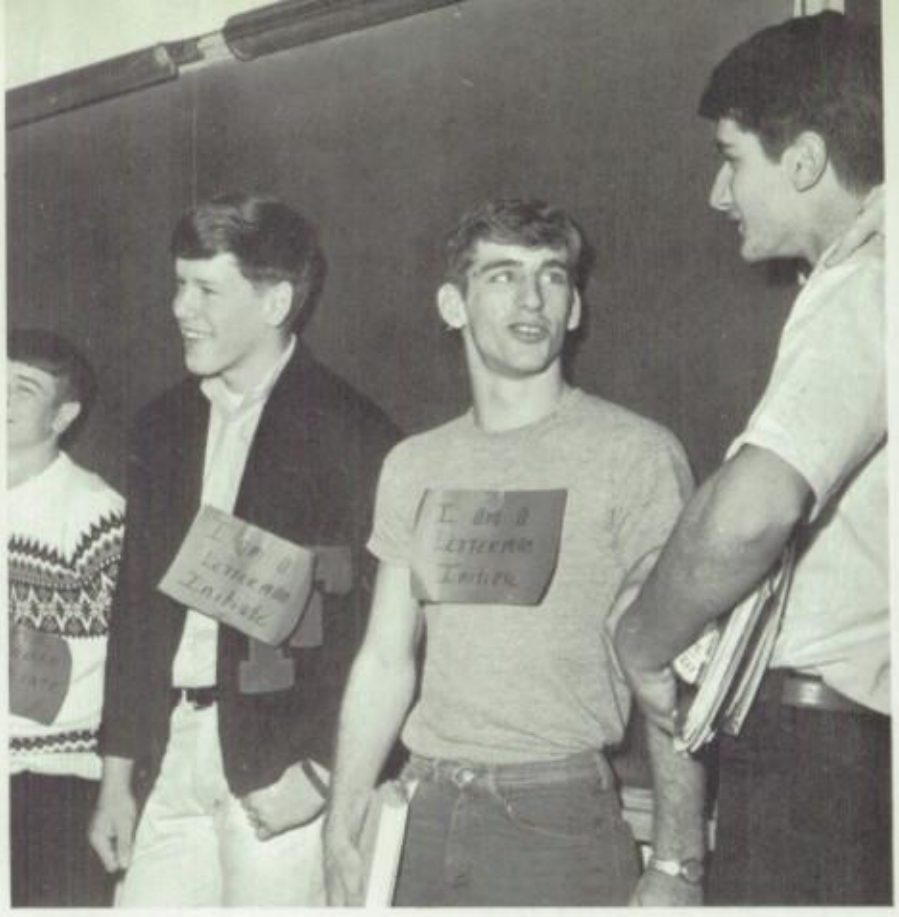
Lettermen initiates push pennies through classroom doorways for president Larry Castagnoli.



Gary LaFollette, Greg Koch, Bruce Heistand, and Andy Fotis blend their off-key vocal talents for lettermen's initiation.

Training Choir, Girls' Glee Club, and A Cappella members combine their voices to perform the Magnificat.

Mid-Year Activities

As the year drew to a close, Dodgers kept busy socially. Lettermen's Club staged their hilarious initiation; the music department presented concerts; and school clubs sparked the season with their annual Christmas banquets and parties.

Twerp Week introduced 1967 to F.D.H.S., as the tables turned and the girls treated the boys. Bob Hoover, crowned Twerp King 1967, reigned over the dance which concluded the week of fun.

A Cappella members present a Christmas drama, Amahl and the Night Visitors, for a student assembly.

As Dodgers laugh, Nancy Landes plants a regal kiss on King Bob Hoover's cheek.

Maintain Dodger Tradition

In a turnabout custom, Cindy Horn helps King Bob with his coat.

Larry Castagnoli adds the crowning touch to the twerp skit.

Stan Baker contains Andy in his surprise.

Brothers Steve and Gary Knutson vote for a king candidate.

Joyce Jones and Susan Hunt prepare spaghetti for their meal assignment in cooking class.

Implements Motivate

M-M-M—approves Ann Anderson

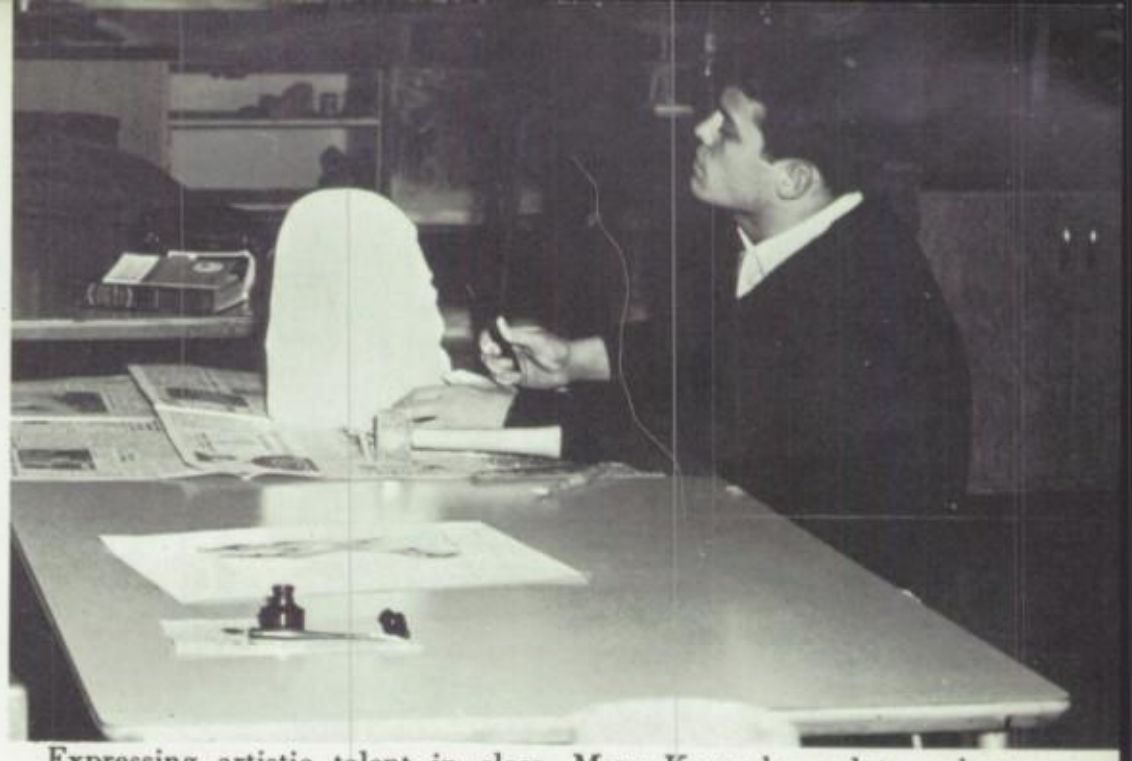
Mr. Gustafson assists Bruce Tefler, Mike Scheller, Deanna Johnson Annette Jones, Larry Klass with their art projects.

James Messerly and Mike Schwering repair a rear axle in auto mechanics class to give themselves practical experience for the future.

Motivating her students in a world history lesson with the use of an overhead projector is Miss Hanson.

Of Learning Dodger Students

Using the tools of various basic skills, as well as those implements of pre-vocational courses, students prepared themselves for careers after graduation. The students learned to master the use of equipment as simple as paint brushes and as complicated as linotypes. Cooking class, printing class, and auto mechanics used equipment that gave practical on-the-job experiences. Complete training in operation of the implements was given the students so they became highly capable in using the equipment. Projects undertaken in the classrooms would prove fruitful in the future.



Expressing artistic talent in class, Marc Kennedy sculpts a bust of Shakespeare.

In printing class Doug Maschio sets type for a pamphlet project.

Wearing their protector glasses, Gary Peterson and Walter Sampson weld a project in welding class.

Scenes Like Capture

Directing the pep band for one of the pep assemblies is Mr. Keith Altemeier.

Julie Halvorson flashes a smile at the end of another school dav

Tired and bubbling Dodgers jam the concourse before school in the morning.

These Our Year

Steve Baedke and Sue Fuller just love it when 3:35 rolls around.

The Thespian bus trip apparently has gotten the best of Oscar Habhab.

Jane Scheideman and Mike Paulson operate the popcorn machine for student council's turn in the concession stand.

Dressed as a meter maid for a mock trial, Lowell Handy takes his oath.

The Class Of '67

The seniors held many memories of their final year at Fort Dodge Senior High School. A class, once closely knit, departed, each member looking for his goal in life. Seniors recalled the activities of the year which included the biggest bonfire in the history of F. D. H. S., homecoming, the annual Christmas concert, the many plays, and the operetta. The activities of senior week, the dinner dance, class day, the all night party, and graduation were pursued by all. Chemistry and physics tests, research papers for English, Shakespeare, and the college entrance exams made lasting impressions. For many years, the class had been waiting for the moment to be mighty seniors; but now that moment is over.

Karen Ostrem and Cindi DuBois spend many nights studying at the Public Library.

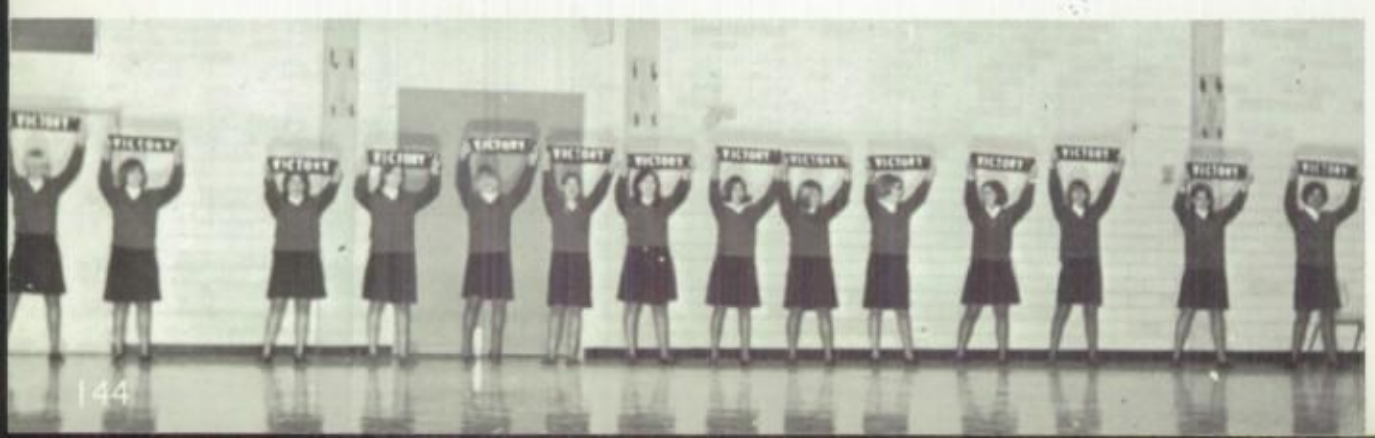
A PARTING THOUGHT

Each individual is a part of the student body, so each person contributes a part of himself to FDHS. There are brief moments of glory and defeat for some students in sports, club activities, musical and dramatic productions. All of us share the reality of examinations and deadlines, the semester grades, and the noontime cafeteria rush. The laughter of students echoing through the halls or the quietness of classes at work is heard. Then, to the sound of bells, Dodgers move out of the rooms and corridors, leaving the building empty. Thus, the days fly by, and with them many experiences. Dodgers will remember the excitement of registration, the casual moments with friends, and the countless hours of study both in and out of classes. To each of us this school year means something different and will be reflected in individual ways for various reasons. Every page suggests different thoughts for each of us. The 1967 Dodger presents the work, the activities, and the people of Fort Dodge Senior High School with the help of Taylor Publishing Company.



Al,
Well you made it through the year. 20 missed Basketball practices, 100 missed practices, and 4 bumped fenders on cars you hit. Don't have too much fun on the lake while I'm working this summer. Good luck! Luck

Allen
to a cool head
I really think ya got it made with sports
ability, looks,
and a mustang
With all this you'd better make a lot of your high school year
Good luck with
"uncle Roy"
Scott

Al,
Good luck in football and all sports next year. You did a great job this year. Have fun this summer and be good!
Curt

Dear Allan Shaffer
Have fun this summer
and stay out of trouble
Don't give the gals too much trouble. Good Luck
Jon V. M.

To my good ol' locker mate. Al,
We made through another year. Lets get together this Summer and muscle a couple women!
Steve

Allen
You should have a real good team next year in football
Mark

Al
a real great quarterback and a good kid see you next year Mark
McHenry

To a great athlete as you would say
To let you weren't more aggressive with the girls.
